

SABLEASSENT WHITE PAPER

In today's economy new ideas represent substance for economic growth. Our global economy has become more accessible because of the information age. The need to have more secure business transactions have become more of a challenge, as a result.

It is evident in today's business world that our financial information is dangerously vulnerable to hacking and theft. This generally leaves consumers afraid to transact business using third party systems. As information technology becomes increasingly sophisticated so does the ability to improve the way financial transactions are conducted.

The word "cryptocurrency" represents the ability to move currency (or a measure of value) in such a way that is faster, verified, and without interference. As we embrace this new technology, we want to also have the accessibility worldwide to circulate value within the Black community.

Our community now faces challenges with the access of capital in many forms. Furthermore, our government seems to continuously reduce or eliminate programs that were specifically put into place to support and uplift the black community.

Our new cryptocurrency token will provide an avenue to support communities that are being neglected by failed current government programs. We are SABLEASSENT, the world's first global Black business marketplace cryptocurrency and community support system.

Our tokens will be available to circulate amongst 1.5 billion Black people around the world, which is supported by $1.40 trillion dollars in Black spending annually.

Presently, the Jewish dollar circulates within their community between 8 to 15 days, the Caucasian dollar circulates between 6 to 12 days, and the Hispanic dollar circulates between 3 to 6 days, but the African American dollar circulates six hours.

With the Global Assent

Token active wallet, we can embrace and support Black owned businesses globally. This provides residual resources to Black owned non-profits who are actively serving in their community.

What is the primary goal of SABLEASSENT?
